Obituary

Dr. K.K. Haridas, Professor and Head of the Department, Cardiology at Amrita Institute of Medical Sciences, Cochin expired on 08.09.2012 following liver transplant rejection. He did his cardiology at Sree Chithra Tirunal Institute of Medical Science & Technology, Trivandrum, Kerala in 1988. One of the most brilliant cardiologists our country has produced, he is well known for his teaching abilities and communication skills.

His academic and interventional abilities are endless. He had a particular interest in device closure of aortic aneurysms and left main angioplasty. Needless to say that India lost a very bright cardiologist of a youthful age who has many many years of productive life ahead. Having known him personally, I feel a great personal loss. He is survived by wife Mrs. Anuradha and two sons Mr. Nikhil Krishna and Mr. Koushik Haridas. The entire CSI Executive joins me in expressing deepest condolences to the bereaved family.
